EMERGENCY PROCEDURE

Announcements will be preceded by a distinctive two-toned signal. In the event of an emergency evacuation we will ask all spectators to listen very carefully to the public address announcements which will direct you to the evacuation route you should take. An evacuation may concern one or more stands in the Stadium. If the evacuation does not affect your stand, please remain where you are unless directed otherwise. Please respond quickly, but calmly, to the announcements and to the requests of the Stewards and Police Officers to ensure a safe evacuation of the Stadium.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

The Players, Directors and Staff of Bolton Wanderers Football Club wish to make clear our abhorrence of all forms of discrimination. Any fans who are caught abusing players or fans because of their race, gender, age, disability, religious belief or sexual orientation will face arrest and may be prosecuted. Bolton Wanderers celebrates diversity and asks you to support your club. Should you encounter any form of this unacceptable behaviour please email the club at feedback@bwfc.co.uk

IMPORTANT SAFETY NOTICE

In order to comply with Football League safety directives, Bolton Wanderers must ensure that supporters remain seated during matches. Supporters from both sides are therefore asked to refrain from standing for long periods of the game, it spoils it for others around you, and is a safety hazard. Everyone wants to enjoy themselves, but please understand the club's priority is to ensure the safety and well being of all spectators.

THE MANAGER

DOUGIE FREEDMAN

Looking back at last Saturday's game at Millwall, once again frustration was the overriding emotion at the end of the 90 minutes. Obviously, we held a lead for a long period and the opportunity was there to inflict successive home defeats on Millwall, but it just was not to be.

It was a solid and professional performance on a difficult pitch in difficult conditions. The players stuck at it and a point was the very least we deserved.

This afternoon we welcome all of those associated with Watford, their management team, players, supporters and staff.

The last two home games have been a case of what might have been for us. A draw against Burnley and a win against Bournemouth would not have been unfair. We need to convert these should have and could have moments into actual positive outcomes.

We can still finish this season on a positive note, providing we start turning these home draws into wins.

Your continued support will once again be crucial this afternoon. There is a lot of hard work going on behind the scenes and rest assured that everyone is pulling in the same direction for the good of our club. There is a real determined mood in and around the training ground and players at present.

At time of penning these notes we have no new news on the injury front. Jermaine Beckford is on the comeback trail but won't be ready for today and Andre Moritz will probably miss out too.

I have a responsibility to the club, and you, the supporters. Any deals we do on the transfer front are thoroughly thought out, and be it permanent or loans, ins or outs, they have to be right for the club when taking into account the impact of Financial Fair Play.

This afternoon also marks the club's designated community fixture for the season. As a club, we pride ourselves on being very much in touch with our local community.

In doing so, our Community Trust are very active in and around the local area and it will once again be great to see the hard work continue over the coming period.

Finally, we were all saddened to hear of the passing of the legendary Sir Tom Finney. He was a loyal, one-club man, just like our very own Nat Lofthouse. It was humbling to see the huge respect in which he was held, as reflected in the behaviour of the fans at all of the clubs where his memory was honoured.

Enjoy the game.

ZATKNIGHT

It was frustrating at the weekend not to come away with all three points against Millwall, especially considering how long we'd been ahead for in the game.

It seems as though it's the same old story for us – we just couldn't get the ball in the back of the net to make sure of the result.

Saying that though, Lukas scored a fantastic goal – I really don't know how he managed to get it in the back of the net from the angle he was at. With the penalty itself, he was really unlucky but he's been fantastic for us.

He was a little down after the game, but I took him to one side and told him to just keep going and doing as he has been because he's been brilliant since he arrived.

It was always going to be a difficult game, especially playing against a team like Millwall who are fighting for their lives and we knew that it was going to be a tough place to go.

Prior to the match also, football lost a true hero in Sir Tom Finney - he was an inspirational figure in the game and will be sorely missed.

The match itself was one where both teams had chances to win it, but I felt like given our performance, nobody would have begrudged us the victory had we held on.

When they equalised, they threw a lot at us in the closing stages, but I felt like we dealt with it well and that's something that we can take confidence from heading into today's game.

Watford are a tough side – they drew in midweek against Yeovil, but they're still a very difficult team to come up against.

At the start of the season, having come so close to promotion in the play-offs, many expected them, like ourselves, to challenge high up the table this term but unfortunately for both of us, it's not been the case.

Whether it's a good thing or a bad thing, the Championship is an incredibly unpredictable league with no certainties in terms of results and on their day, anybody can beat anybody.

I think it is fair to say that perhaps a few teams in the league, including ourselves, got a little complacent in the summer, especially with us having finished so strongly last season, and it's not gone as planned.

It's going to be a testing game today – we need the points as much as they do, but we're looking forward to it as we're confident that we have enough about us to get the result that we desperately need and hopefully go on a run after it.

With any luck however, today will be the day that we get the three points that we feel we deserve and send you all home happy.

Today's game also marks the club's community fixture for the 2013/14 season. Having been here for the nearly five years now, I've been able to see first hand the importance of the work of the BWCT - they do an incredible job and long may it continue.

Enjoy the game.

Help Ellis' Daddy raise £100,000 to find a cure for Ellis

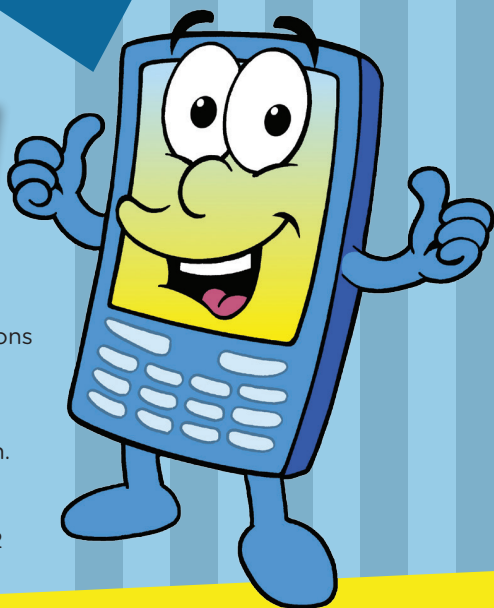

Richard Page is cycling 3,500 miles to all of Leicester City's Sky Bet Championship away games to raise money for his son, Ellis, who suffers from MECP2 Duplication Syndrome

The condition means that Ellis may never walk or talk, and suffers from chest infections and seizures, brought on by epilepsy.

Sky Bet, the title sponsor of the Football League, are backing Richard as he tries to raise £100,000 for the text“ellis” campaign.

With these funds, research can begin into finding a cure for Ellis, after an exciting breakthrough led to the reversal of MECP2 Duplication Syndrome in mice.

THE BIG INTERVIEW

LIAM TROTTER

A DEADLINE DAY LOAN ACQUISITION FROM MILLWALL, LIAM TROTTER IS A MAN WHO BOASTS A PLETHORA OF EXPERIENCE HAVING BEEN INVOLVED PROFESSIONALLY IN THE GAME FOR THE BEST PART OF EIGHT YEARS.

Having now swapped the capital for BL6 however, the 25-year-old spoke exclusively to the official matchday programme to talk about everything from playing alongside Bolton legend Ivan Campo to his friendship with former Whites' loanee Liam Feeney.

Liam – you've been playing professionally for the best part of a decade. How did it all begin?

It's hard to pinpoint exactly where, but football was just something that I played at school with my friends and I enjoyed it, so it just stemmed from there.

My first real memory of the game was watching Euro 1996 – I was about eight at the time and it was such a massive thing in this country. Sitting there and watching the tournament, I was just enthralled and I knew then that I wanted to be a professional footballer.

Was there anybody in particular who had a big influence on your early career?

Once my parents saw how interested I'd become in the game, they took me to games and put me in teams to help me develop. It really did come from just growing up watching games on TV – with every game that I watched, it just made me want to become a footballer more and more.

I probably started a little bit late in terms of getting into actual teams - I played a lot down the local park, but it wasn't until I was about ten before I started playing regularly on Saturdays.

You didn't join Ipswich until your late teens – was there a reason that you weren't scouted earlier?

I'd just been playing locally until I left school and went to college where I joined their football team. It worked really well as I was able to study in the morning, and then play football in the afternoon so it was the perfect balance.

I spent a pre-season with them and did quite well, so much so that I was promoted to the first team which was the men's team, and they got me a trial with Ipswich Town. That went really well, and I signed for them when I was just 16.

It must have been a dream signing for your hometown club?

It definitely was – I didn't actually support Ipswich though as I'd not really attached myself to any team in particular. I just enjoyed watching football whenever it was on.

The team that I probably watched most was Manchester United because they were always on television – I was a big Eric Cantona fan. I had a lot of players that I looked up to, but he was probably the main one.

I just loved everything about him, from his collar being up to the aura about him and he was really my first footballing hero. Of course, you find more people that you admire as you progress through your career, but he was definitely the biggest.

Did you fancy yourself as a striker when you were younger as well then?

I did actually spend a lot of my younger days as a striker, probably until I was about 14 or 15 when I dropped back into midfield a bit more and started plying my trade there instead. I think they thought I'd lost a bit of pace and stuck me back a bit!

You've still got an eye for goal though...

Definitely. I've managed a decent scoring record, particularly with Millwall, but I would like to have got a few more throughout my career. Part of my game is getting in the box and trying to score goals which is something I'm really keen to do during my time with Bolton.

Have you got a favourite goal that you've scored?

That would have to be my very first as a professional on my home debut for Ipswich when I was just 17 - I'd only been on the pitch for about five minutes and I scored from a corner to put us 2-1 up against Colchester.

It was especially sweet for me though because Colchester had turned me down twice as a youngster, so it was a bit of a fairytale for me.

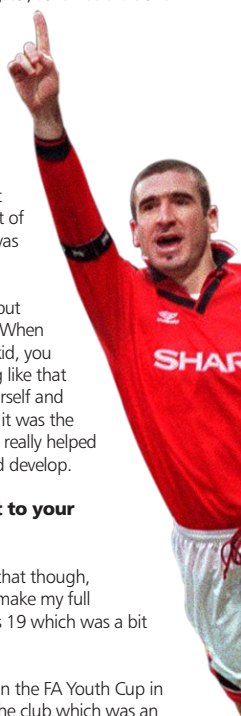

That is probably the highlight of my career so far too – given the whole back story that I had with the opposition, to get that goal in front of the club's fans was just incredible.

I felt like it really put me on the map. When you're a young kid, you need something like that to introduce yourself and in terms of that, it was the perfect start and really helped me move on and develop.

A dream start to your career!

Definitely. After that though, I didn't actually make my full debut until I was 19 which was a bit frustrating.

I did however win the FA Youth Cup in my first year at the club which was an amazing experience. I was just 16 at the time, but we had a very good team and we'd come up against a really talented Southampton side too in the final.

It was a fantastic opportunity though, and I feel like it really prepared me for what was to come in the game. We had 15,000 fans at the game which was an incredible turnout for a youth match and to actually win the cup was the icing on the cake.

You had a couple of loan spells away from Portman Road during your time with the club – was there any particular reason for them?

I think it was just a case of me gaining experience really – I went on loan to Millwall, Scunthorpe and Grimsby and came back to try and break into the first team, but it just didn't really happen for me there which was a shame.

All I wanted to do was play, so after I came back from Millwall I decided to sign for them permanently. It was the perfect move for me at the time – I knew the club, the people were great and it was close to home so it was a no brainer.

It turned out to be a pretty successful move for yourself...

It did – we'd got promotion the season that I'd been there on loan, and when the opportunity arose to play week in week out in the Championship, it was one that I couldn't turn down.

I like to think it's been a successful few years – when I signed for the club they were in League One, and now they're in the Championship. I feel proud that I've played my part in helping the club move forward.

Understandably they are a club that you hold close to your heart, but you joined Wanderers on deadline day for the rest of the season. How did that move come about?

I was just made aware by Ian Holloway that Bolton had enquired about me and that it was down to me whether I wanted to speak to Dougie Freedman or not. I was really interested straight away, purely down to the size of the club and everything about it, but once I'd spoken to the manager, my mind was made up.

No doubt a certain Liam Feeney will have been on hand to offer his thoughts on the club too?

Of course! Feens was my roommate back in Millwall – we had a flat together and we're very close friends. I kept in touch with him while he was at Bolton and he was always saying nothing but great things about the place and how much he enjoyed his time here.

He was so complimentary about the place, so he definitely helped to sell the club to me too. Even if he hadn't said what he did though, I would have still signed for the club regardless.

It's not been the best of starts results wise, but I feel like I've settled in quite well regardless of that. I'm enjoying the training and there's a great set of lads here that have always been really welcoming.

I just want to hit the ground running and hopefully help the team get results.

Your name is quite fitting for the club too – have you had many jokes about the coincidence?

There's not been too many from the lads – I'm not sure if many of them have clocked on, or if they don't want to take the mickey just yet! I had a few friends making a few jibes about it when I told them where I was going, but it is very fitting.

You've plenty of experience behind you, but who has been the toughest player that you've come up against?

When I was younger, I played for Ipswich against West Brom and I came up against Robert Koren and Youssouf Mulumbu who ran me absolutely ragged that day.

Even to this day, they're probably the most difficult players that I've faced – they're two very good players and I didn't stand a chance against them!

There have certainly been some memorable players that you've played with too, no doubt?

Definitely, but the best one would have to be somebody that Bolton fans are more than aware of – Ivan Campo. He was coming to the end of his career when he came to Ipswich, but he was such an incredibly talented player with experience that none of us could match.

He'd played for great clubs like Real Madrid and of course Bolton, but he was unbelievable and a lovely guy to work with as well.

You were ineligible for last weekend's game at The Den due to the restrictions of your loan deal – was it a case of mixed emotions?

It was, but I did my best in terms of helping the lads prepare for the game because I know the club so well. Millwall are a great club with some very good players and a great manager – they're definitely a team on the up.

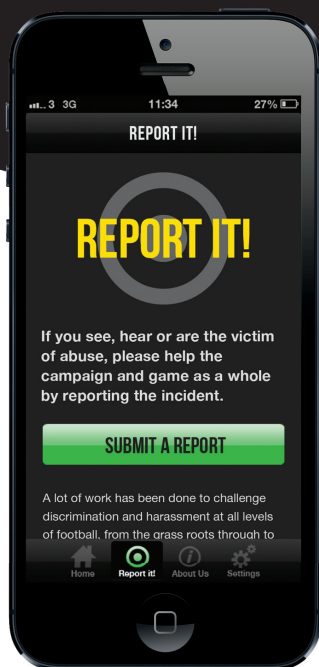

Saying that though, so are Bolton – the performances are there, and once we get a result there is only one way we're heading.

POST-MATCH REACTION

Dougie Freedman on bwfc.co.uk

"I felt we probably deserved to be at least one goal up going into half time. Overall, we feel like it is one point lost because I didn't feel we did enough to warrant all three points."

David Wheater on bwfc.co.uk

"It was disappointing that we couldn't get something from the game as especially in the first half, I felt like we gave a really good account of ourselves."

Sean Dyche on burnleyfootballclub.com

"In the first half it was a more balanced affair, but in the second, apart from the last seven or eight minutes, when the long stuff starts coming in as you chase the game, I felt we deserved it."

So close for Eagles whose cross almost sneaks in at the far post! (49) 0-0 #BOLvBUR

Goal. Burnley lead through Sam Vokes at the far post. (58) 0-1 #BOLvBUR

A glorious opportunity for Bolton as Eagles pulls the ball back into the box, but nobody is able to meet it! (74) 0-1 #BOLvBUR

Corner for Wanderers! Bogdan up! (90) 0-1 #BOLvBUR

Full Time: #BWFC 0-1 Burnley. Sam Vokes' goal is the decider.

Jared Borgetti is mobbed by his teammates after scoring Wanderers' opening goal in an FA Cup third round tie against Watford in January 2006.

With the Mexican's early strike putting the Whites in driving seat, Stelios and Ricardo Vaz Te made sure of Bolton's progression with a goal apiece either side of half time to secure an emphatic 3-0 victory.

A game which also saw young goalkeeper Sam Ashton introduced as a makeshift striker in the dying minutes, Wanderers went on to beat Arsenal in the next round before bowing out to West Ham United following a replay at Upton Park.

WANDERERS 5-2 MAN CITY

Wanderers' under-18 side ended their Manchester City counterparts' 13-match winning streak with an emphatic 5-2 victory at Lostock last Saturday.

Heading into the clash off the back of a narrow defeat to Newcastle United last time out, David Lee and Tony Kelly's youngsters were forced to pit their wits against torrential conditions inside the opening stages of the game.

Not to be deterred by the bad weather however, the Whites proceeded to take the lead through Tom Walker who drilled home from 18 yards after great work from Aaron Knight outside the area.

A dream start for the hosts, City did hit back with efforts from Thierry Ambrose and Brandon Barker, but Bolton keeper Harry Campbell was equal to their efforts to maintain Wanderers' advantage.

Having weathered the storm in more ways than one, Bolton hit the visitors shortly before the break as Jamie Thomas unleashed an angled drive from 20 yards which gave

City goalkeeper Billy O'Brien no chance. With a commanding lead under their belts, Wanderers made it three a matter of minutes after the restart with Elliot Newby pouncing on a loose ball after the City defence had failed to deal with a corner.

A game which seemed destined for just one result, City's young side weren't finished yet and had a goal back just three minutes later as Barker's shot took a deflection on its way into the net.

A tonic for the Blues, they snatched a second moments later as an unmarked Ambrose fired home past Campbell for his 15th goal of an impressive season for City.

An unexpected scoreline given Wanderers' dominance early on, the visitors pushed for an equaliser as the clock ran down with Barker going close to notching his second of the game, while Olivier Ntcham fired narrowly over the crossbar.

With City piling bodies forward, Wanderers capitalised on a lack of men at the back and hit the Blues on the break, with Walker and Newby combining for the former to score from 12 yards out and put hopes of a Blues' comeback to bed. The Whites weren't finished there however, with Thomas taking advantage of a poor kick from O'Brien to fire home and make it five with just three minutes to go.

Speaking following the game, coach Lee admitted his delight at the result and the performance that went with it by his young side.

"It was a fantastic result," he said at the final whistle. "It was a great performance all round, and we were really pleased with the overall desire and attitude of the players.

"We came up against a very good Manchester City team who had been on an incredible run of form, so to score five excellent goals and secure such a great result is testament to the players we have here."

Bolton: Campbell, Greenaugh, Garratt, Honeyball, Ball, Kennedy, Newby, Cvetko, Knight (Abbotts), Thomas, Walker

TOTTENHAM 2-5 WANDERERS

Georg Iliev hit a hat-trick as Wanderers' under-21 side overcame a two goal deficit to run out 5-2 winners over ten-man Tottenham Hotspur on Monday afternoon.

The hosts had raced into an early lead courtesy of goals from Souleymane Coulibaly and Shaquille Coulthirst, but Tom Youngs and Chris Lester drew the Whites level in the second period.

Not satisfied with a point however, substitute Iliev hit a five minute treble inside the closing stages of the game to secure all three points for Wanderers.

During the opening stages Bolton started the game with a good tempo, with Luke Woodland getting beyond his marker to head into Jordan Archer's hands before Zach Clough ensured that the Spurs keeper was on his guard with a well taken shot.

Hayden White was next up to cause problems in and around the Spurs area, with his low cross from the right flank on the quarter hour mark narrowly evading the advancing Bolton attack.

Settling into the game, Wanderers were dealt a blow a matter of minutes later as Lynch committed himself to a cross but unfortunately came off badly, with under-18 shot stopper Harry Campbell replacing him between the sticks.

Sadly for the youngster though, his first action was to pick the ball out of the net when a pinpoint Kenneth McEvoy corner found the head of Coulibaly who put the hosts in front against the run of play.

Having broken the deadlock, Tottenham were now in the ascendancy and nearly doubled their lead as advancing defender Milos Veljkovic almost found the bottom corner with a swinging shot but his effort went wide.

Over the course of the next ten minutes, the Whites did enjoy opportunities on the break to pull a goal back with Woodland, Youngs and Sanmi Odelusi all squandering chances to equalise.

Wanderers' inability to capitalise however left the door open for Spurs to extend their lead which they did so on the counter attack as Alex McQueen's ball into the box met striker Coulthirst who made no mistake, finding the corner of the Bolton goal with a bullet of a header.

The second period, unlike the first, started slowly with Odelusi being the first to try his luck after a few step-overs to rile first teamer Danny Rose, but his effort went high over the bar.

Following a testing start to the half, it wasn't until the hour mark that the first real opportunities would arise as Hall fired narrowly past the post with Archer beaten.

Under the watchful eye of each team's respective first team managers, the game was about to be completely turned on its head as in the 67th minute as Hall broke away from the Spurs defence with defender Dominic Hall recklessly bringing down the winger and conceding a penalty in the process.

Things were to get worse for the youngster however, with the referee brandishing a red card to him as Youngs took on the responsibility of beating Archer and he did so coolly, sending the keeper the wrong way to halve the deficit.

Now dominating proceedings, Wanderers introduced Lester and Iliev into the mix – substitutes which would prove crucial inside the final 20 minutes of the clash.

With 15 minutes left, the changes made by Bolton reaped dividends as Andy Kellett found Lester who headed home past Archer to equalise for the Whites.

In the 79th minute, Tottenham's problems went from bad to worse as the defence of their ten man side got into a tangle, with the watching faithful watching in awe as Iliev gambled and bundled the ball into the back of the net to hand Wanderers the lead.

The striker, who recently was awarded with a professional contract by the club, continued to flourish and moments later unleashed an audacious drive which flew past Archer, with the flat footed Spurs defence only able to stare in disbelief as the Bulgarian wheeled away to celebrate.

Three minutes later, Hall, the man who started the comeback by winning the penalty, beat his man and found the force and desire of Iliev, with their link up ensuring that the forward completed his hat-trick to send the Bolton bench into raptures and secure a memorable victory for the visitors.

TRUST CELEBRATES BOLTON AT HOME PARTNERSHIP

Today's match against Watford marks the club's annual community game, with the partner for this year's fixture being local based charity Bolton at Home.

Bolton Wanderers Community Trust and Bolton at Home, who recently entered into a strategic partnership, have committed to work together to ensure Bolton has neighbourhoods and homes we can all be proud of.

A registered charity which owns and manages over 18,000 homes across the town, Bolton at Home took over ownership of the housing formerly owned by Bolton Council in March 2011.

The Trust are currently working with Bolton at Home to support the development of Bolton's neighbourhoods using the power of football and sport and the popular brand of Bolton Wanderers Football Club.

Staff from the Trust and Bolton at Home have been working together to provide opportunities for their tenants to take part in a range of positive activities, including sport and physical activity sessions particularly targeted at young people.

Future plans for the partnerships include:

- The delivery of new employment and skills development opportunities to help more tenants get work ready and find employment.
- Working in partnership with local businesses in the private sector to deliver Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR) projects with local community groups.

PREMIER LEAGUE KICKS TOURNAMENT SUCCESS

Bolton Wanderers Community Trust recently took seven young people from their Premier League Kicks project to take part in a tournament at Manchester City's Etihad Stadium.

Held on Saturday 8 February 2014, the day started off with a workshop which was led by The Street Doctors, a charity which uses medical students to help young people to understand how to help when severe incidents such as stabbings and gunshot wounds occur.

The youngsters and Kicks staff were taken on a stadium tour of the Etihad Stadium, during which they were shown both the home and away changing rooms, which consisted of massage benches, back-lit seats and even ice baths.

They were also shown the pitch-side dugouts, the media room and the players' lounge which is used by the players' families on match days.

In the afternoon, the young people took part in a football tournament at the Manchester Tennis and Football Centre.

The tournament involved two teams from Manchester City's Premier League Kicks project as well as two sides from Everton and Blackpool's similar schemes.

Wanderers' youngsters proceeded to draw one and lose two of their three games, coming third overall.

All of the players had a fantastic day and were a credit to themselves and the club.

Ben Laycock, Head of Strategy and Development for Community Cohesion said, "It is great to be able to reward participants with experiences such as this, as it gives them something to aim for when attending Kicks.

"It is always good to see young people mixing so well with Premier League Kicks participants from other areas of the country and all enjoying a day such as this.

"We always try to incorporate some kind of workshop throughout these days which helps offer information and skills to young people based around areas that may affect them on a day-to-day basis.

"We are hoping to host a similar event in the summer which will see Premier League Kicks teams from across the country come to Bolton to take part in a competition, workshop and tour day."

The Premier League Kicks scheme currently runs every evening of the week in Tonge Moor, Farnworth and Westthoughton.

Winston's Wish

the charity for bereaved children

Winston's Wish, the leading charity for bereaved children, is proud to announce that they will be expanding their reach within the North West area this year by supporting families in the Bolton and Greater Manchester locality.

This positive decision has been made by the charity so that they can provide the much-needed additional life-changing support to bereaved children, young people and their families in the area when they need it the most.

With this decision, Winston's Wish is now in the process of recruiting an experienced team to start delivering this enhanced service from late spring.

Winston's Wish will utilise facilities across the Greater Manchester area to host their bereavement support sessions and they are in discussions with a number of potential partners in the region.

The Winston's Wish National Helpline, specialist publications, interactive website and the Callback Telephone Counselling Service, which offers families in-depth, scheduled, support will also remain available to families.

Drop-in sessions will be placed appropriately around the Great Manchester area for anyone who requires support, information or advice from one of the qualified practitioners at Winston's Wish.

Kelly Willison, North West Appeals Officer at Winston's Wish said, "We are thrilled about this new development and would like to thank the public for their wonderful and continued support of Winston's Wish and the North West appeal.

"This really is an exciting start to 2014 for us and we are pleased to be continuing to move forward. We will keep the community up-to-date on our progress as we move forward with this new impactful journey from the spring."

For more information on Winston's Wish, please visit www.winstonswish.org.uk.

We're a local housing charity providing 18,000 affordable homes across Bolton and employing nearly 1,000 people.

We want to build homes and neighbourhoods we can all be proud of so we're investing £124 million into improving our homes and the estates where they are located, as well as disadvantaged areas of the borough.

Working with Bolton Council and our many partners, we also provide debt and money advice, help people back into employment with training, work and volunteering opportunities, and support residents to create stronger communities.

MATT MILLS

DEFENDER AIMING TO MAKE THE REEBOK HOME SWEET HOME

With Wanderers having suffered a narrow reverse against their Burnley counterparts in their last Reebok clash eleven days ago, Matt Mills has stressed the importance of making home advantage count in the final months of the campaign.

On an evening which saw the Whites control proceedings for much of the game, Sam Vokes' goal shortly before the hour mark ensured that the Turf Moor outfit would leave BL6 with all three points.

A disappointing final scoreline for Wanderers given their efforts, Mills explained that although the team have been disheartened with a number of results on home soil this term, there is a firm belief in the Bolton camp that their luck will soon change.

"I think in terms of our home form, although the results haven't necessarily been there, the performances have been really good," said the defender.

"If we just keep doing as we have been doing, I'm confident that we'll start picking up more wins, hopefully starting today against Watford."

Heading into the clash on the back of a 1-1 draw with Millwall at The Den last weekend, the centre-half admitted that Wanderers' performance in south-east London was one which will provide the team with ample confidence ahead of two consecutive home games against the Hornets and rivals Blackburn Rovers.

"After the game last weekend, I'd be lying if I said that we weren't disappointed to have only left with a point, especially given that we missed the penalty," he said.

"I thought we dominated the game in and out of possession, so I think frustrated is the perfect word to sum it up.

"Given the situation that ourselves and Millwall are in, The Den is never an easy place to go, but I felt that we acquitted ourselves well and were very unlucky not to leave with all three points."

The 27-year-old added: "Of course, we felt sorry for ourselves a little after the game because we believed that we'd done enough to warrant the victory, but we dusted ourselves off quickly because we have some important matches to come.

"We've got 15 games of the season left, so we can't afford to dwell on what has already happened – we just need to take confidence from our recent performances and start picking up points."

SO FAR THIS SEASON...

After narrowly missing out on promotion to the Premier League last season, Watford were determined to make amends this year.

The Hornets currently lie in mid-table, though with a strong run of results a push for the play-offs is not out of the question.

Former boss Gianfranco Zola left the club back in December after his side went nine games without a win.

The Hornets moved quickly to appoint Giuseppe Sannino as their new head coach, and while Watford are yet to replicate their encouraging early season form, the 56-year-old has steadied the ship.

Back-to-back home wins against Brighton & Hove Albion and Birmingham City, as well as a 2-2 away draw against runaway leaders Leicester City, restored the faith that Watford can still challenge for promotion.

If they are to do so however, they will need to improve their defence having conceded two-goal leads in three of their last five fixtures heading into last weekend's clash with Middlesbrough.

At the other end of the field Watford hold no such problems with leading goalscorer Troy Deeney having already found the back of the net 14 times so far this season, while Fernando Forestieri has registered four goals from his last nine appearances.

Yet, this did not stop Sannino from adding two strikers to his squad last month, signing Park Chu-Young on loan from Arsenal, while Swedish international Mathias Ranegie became the latest player to join Watford from sister-club Udinese.

With plenty of competition for places in attack, the Hornets' 3-5-2 system promises, at the very least, more of the same to come in front of goal as the season nears its climax.

A confident performance at the Etihad Stadium in the FA Cup last month showed what Watford are capable of on their day, as they became only the second English side to score more than once against Manuel Pellegrini's side away from home this season.

Only the brilliance of Sergio Aguero denied the Hornets that day, as the 2012 Premier League champions came from behind to cruelly snatch a late victory from the claws of defeat.

However, if Watford can repeat that sort of performance more often over the upcoming months, then there is no reason why they cannot challenge for a play-off date at Wembley come May.

STAR MAN

Having starred in goal for Premier League giants Arsenal during the late noughties, Watford club captain Manuel Almunia is longing for a return to England's top flight with the Hornets.

A journeyman in his native Spain, Almunia started his senior career with Osasuna's reserve side in 1997, playing in Segunda Division B.

After enjoying brief spells with Cartagonova and Sabadell, the 36-year-old joined La Liga side Celta Vigo in 2001, but never made a senior appearance during his three years at the club.

Instead the Spaniard spent time on loan at Eibar, Recreativo Huelva and Albacete, before he joined the Gunners as Jens Lehmann's understudy in July 2004.

Having made his debut Premier League debut against Birmingham City in December 2004, the highlight of Almunia's first season in England came during Arsenal's FA Cup fifth round replay victory over Sheffield United, as he saved two spot-kicks in the Gunners' penalty shootout win.

Arsene Wenger's side went on to win the competition, beating Manchester United, as the Spaniard picked up a winners' medal having been an unused substitute in the final.

The following season Almunia remained as back-up to Lehmann, but found himself thrust into the limelight during the Gunners' Champions League Final defeat to Barcelona, after he was introduced to the action in the 20th minute following the German's dismissal.

Almunia finally managed to usurp Lehmann as the Gunners' number one during the 2007/08 campaign, making 29 league appearances as Arsenal challenged for the Premier League title.

A mixture of injuries and poor performances saw Almunia lose his place during the 2010/11 season, with Wenger even convincing 42-year-old Lehmann out of retirement when the Gunners suffered an injury crisis later in the season.

After spending a brief spell on loan at West Ham United during the 2011/12 campaign, Almunia was released from his Arsenal contract at the end of the season.

Joining Watford on a one-year deal, Almunia was at his inspirational best as the Hornets reached the Championship Play-Off Final during his first season with the club, even saving Anthony Knockaert's last minute penalty to help secure his side's place at Wembley at the expense of Leicester City.

Sadly lightning did not strike twice for Almunia, as Kevin Phillips' extra-time spot-kick doomed Watford to another year in the second tier of English football.

After signing a new twelve-month contract with Watford, Almunia was handed the captain's armband last summer, and has appeared in all but five of the Hornets' league games so far this season.

THE BOSS

Although unproven in English football, Giuseppe Sannino's knack of winning promotion with lower-league clubs in Italy helped convince Watford that the 56-year-old was the right man to replace Gianfranco Zola late last year.

Sannino embarked on a coaching career in 1990 as he took charge of Vogherese's U17s side, before later enjoying youth coach roles at both Pavia and Monza, as well as a spell as head coach of Oltrepo.

A brief spell as a youth coach with Como followed, before Sannino enjoyed his first taste of life as a professional manager with Serie C2 side Biellese in 1998. However, his time with the club was not a success and he was dismissed before the end of the season.

Next taking charge of FC Sudtirolo, Sannino guided the club to the Serie D championship in his first season in charge, before keeping the side in Serie C2 the following year.

Brief, unsuccessful spells with Meda, Sangiovannese, Varese and Cosenza followed before Sannino bounced back in memorable fashion with unfancied side Lecco during the 2006/07 season, leading the club to a shock promotion to Serie C1 in only his second year at the club.

The following year Sannino replicated his Lecco success at Pergocrema, before then returning to Serie C2 side Varese and guiding them into Serie B following back-to-back promotions.

Sannino almost led Varese into Serie A during the 2010/11 campaign, in what was his first season in charge of a second tier club, only for his side to lose in the play-off semi-finals.

In June 2011, Sannino replaced Juventus-bound Antonio Conte as the head coach of newly promoted Serie A club Siena - taking charge of a top flight club for the first time in his career.

Managing to keep Siena safely out of the relegation zone during the 2011/12 season, Sannino also guided the club to the Coppa Italia semi-finals, where they lost to eventual winners Napoli.

Sannino took charge of Palermo at the start of the 2012/13 season, but was sacked in September after a poor start to the campaign.

He surprisingly returned to the job in March 2013, but despite a string of impressive results was unable to keep Palermo in the top flight.

Following an unsuccessful stint with Chievo, Sannino was named as the new Watford head coach back in December, and has already slowly helped the Hornets climb the table as they look to make a late push for a top six berth.

LOOKING BACK

Having won all their previous home clashes with Watford in the 21st century, Bolton fans have fond memories of this fixture. Today we look back to September 2006 when record signing Nicolas Anelka made his Whites' debut and a last-minute penalty from the late Gary Speed ensured there was drama right up until the final whistle.

After losing against Charlton Athletic in their previous fixture, Sam Allardyce's side were determined to bounce back after the international break when they welcomed newly-promoted Watford to the Reebok Stadium.

With £8million man Anelka starting in attack for the first time since completing his move from Turkish side Fenerbahce, there was a positive feeling amongst the Bolton squad and fans alike.

However, it was the Hornets who started the tie the brighter as Trotters' defender Nicky Hunt, who departed injured just short of the half-hour mark, turned a Damien Francis cross narrowly over his own bar inside the opening three minutes.

Francis continued to be the danger man for Watford, and could have given his side the lead in the 19th minute when he ran on to Darius Henderson's header, only for his subsequent effort on goal to cannon back off the post.

Enjoying a quiet debut thus far, Anelka almost sprung into life midway through the first half, narrowly missing out on a debut strike. Racing onto Kevin Nolan's pinpoint cross, the Frenchman's fierce drive fizzed just wide of the post.

With Bolton growing into the fixture, Abdoulaye Faye then headed an El-Hadji Diouf corner off-target as both sides continued to push for an opener.

Anelka came close again on the hour as he burst clear of the Watford backline, only to see on-rushing Manchester United loanee Ben Foster make a crucial block to deny the forward.

It was to be the tiring 27-year-old's last contribution as he gave way to former Everton winger Idal Tal with 20 minutes remaining on the clock.

Watford continued to push for a winner, as man-of-the-match Ashley Young came close ten minutes from the end.

Receiving the ball from Gavin Mahon, the winger turned and hit a rising shot from the edge of the area, only to see his effort clip Jussi Jaaskelainen's crossbar on the way over.

Marlon King was the next man to come close for the Hornets, firing harmlessly wide when clean through on goal. However, the linesman's flag saved the forward's blushes.

Aidy Boothroyd's side hit the woodwork for the third time moments later as Malky Mackay rose highest to beat Jaaskelainen with a header, only for Watford to once again fall victim to the crossbar as the ball rebounded to safety.

Then, at a time when anything other than a Watford winner would seem unjust as the game entered its fourth minute of injury time, defender Danny Shittu's badly-misjudged attempted clearance only resulted in a foul on substitute Tal, presenting Bolton with a glorious chance to snatch all three points right at the death.

Up stepped the ever-reliable Speed to take the spot-kick, as the Welshman inevitably slammed the ball high beyond Foster into the net, securing victory for Bolton much to the relief of the home crowd.

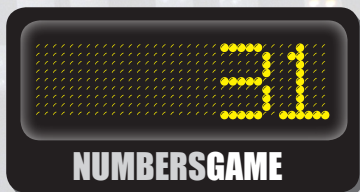

The win would see Bolton embark on a seven-match unbeaten run in all competitions as they challenged for Europe over the course of the season, with a Champions League place a real possibility at one stage.

The Whites eventually had to settle for a place in the Europa League after finishing seventh in the table, but that did nothing to take the edge off what had been another fantastic campaign.

NUMBERSGAME

Watford's biggest league win came against Sunderland in a First Division clash back September 1982.

John Barnes is Watford's most capped player, having picked up 31 of his 79 England caps during his time with the club.

Luther Blissett's record number of league goals for Watford, registered during three separate spells at Vicarage Road between 1975 and 1993.

Blissett is also Watford's record league appearance maker, having appeared 415 times for the Hornets during his time at the club.

The Hornets' highest ever Football League finish was achieved during the 1982/83 season when Graham Taylor's side finished as First Division runners-up behind Liverpool.

Watford reached the third round of the UEFA Cup in the 1983/84 season when they competed in a major European competition for the first and, so far to date, only time.

The amount Watford paid West Bromwich Albion for club record signing Nathan Ellington in August 2007.

Goalkeeper Alec Chamberlain was 42 when he came off the bench to feature against Newcastle United in May 2007, becoming Watford's oldest ever player to compete for the club in the Football League in the process.

EDUCATION

IMPRESSIVE START TO 2014 FOR ISS

The International Soccer School's football team have enjoyed ample success since reporting back from their Christmas break, with the side having won four of their last six games.

Having started the calendar year with a bang against Warrington College with a 4-1 victory, the Whites were then cruelly denied their place in the fifth round of the FA Youth Cup after being narrowly beaten by Accrington Stanley's youth team.

Not to be deterred however, Wanderers' Internationals bounced back in their next fixture by defeating Myerscough College by two goals to nil, before securing 2-1 and 3-2 wins over Liverpool College and Stockport County FC respectively.

Having produced such an impressive run of results, the youngsters unfortunately suffered a 1-0 victory against their Chorley FC counterparts in their last outing.

Despite a disappointing final outcome against the Magpies, the ISS' manager Dave Bailey revealed his delight at the way in which the team have acquitted themselves in recent weeks and produced form which he believes will only flourish during their time with the club.

"Since the lads have returned following Christmas, they have shown a real enthusiasm in training and games," he explained. "They've had some tough games since coming back against the likes of Accrington Stanley and Stockport County – teams which are of a high calibre and ones which we have competed very well against.

"The lads are working as hard as ever and are still trying to pursue a career in football - we have a squad now of 30 so the competition for games is very healthy and they are all competing against each other, which is only bettering them and aiding their development as it is pushing them further and further.

"Some of the football they have been playing has been a joy to watch – the players are starting to understand their roles better which is making them into a very well organised side who are difficult to beat."

REGIONAL SUCCESS FOR THORNLEIGH SALESIAN COLLEGE GIRLS TEAM

As part of the Football League Trust, Bolton Wanderers Community Trust held their annual Under-13s Girls Cup at the Eddie Davies Academy in November.

All local high schools were invited to take part, with eight entering and Thornleigh Salesian Girls Team beating off the competition to run out winners.

Their success in the competition means that they progressed to the area stages at Preston North End to represent Bolton Wanderers Community Trust, coming up against other local winners from Blackpool, Blackburn, Carlisle, Wigan and Burnley.

After an impressive showing throughout which saw the team remain unbeaten, Thornleigh came up against a strong Carlisle team in the final and went on to secure a 2-1 win with a battling performance by all involved.

Having emerged victorious in the regional finals, the Thornleigh Girls were then pitted against three of the best teams from around the country at the Futsal Arena in Leeds.

The girls went on to win or draw the majority of their games but eventually lost against Shrewsbury Town, the team who were the eventual winners of the tournament itself.

A fantastic display from all involved, all the players in the area are already looking forward to competing in the competition again next year after such a wonderful experience.

Inspiring People, Creating Chances, Changing Lives

Today's fixture with Watford marks our community fixture when we celebrate the inspiring work of the Bolton Wanderers Community Trust.

As an independent charity, it reaches out into the heart of the community of Bolton to inspire people, create chances and change lives.

Often when people think of the incredible work of this amazing charity arm of our club, they think of the delivery of football coaching sessions within schools, yet there is so much more that they offer.

The Community Trust is involved in whole range of sporting delivery, encouraging people to get involved, engage and lead more healthy and positive lives.

The Trust also delivers a whole range of exciting projects that can be seen through the pages of this matchday programme focused on health, community cohesion, and education.

Over 80,000 young people per year benefit from being involved with the Trust, with work going on in 150 schools and the charity providing 5000 hours community work annually.

We are delighted that Bolton at Home are a significant partner on this day and in going forward, with the work of the Trust, they will provide the opportunity to reach into the wider community of Bolton.

Today, donations are being sought for one of our associate charities linked with us this year called Winston's Wish, and you can read about the remarkable work of this charity within today's matchday programme.

As we celebrate the work of Bolton Wanderers Community Trust today, I would encourage you to consider ways in which you might get involved including donating to the Trust or supporting events and projects so that they can continue to develop their remarkable work and inspire people, create chances and change lives.

Enjoy the game.

PROMOTIONS

GET YOUR GLADRAGS ON!

It's time for the first of our Lifeline parties tonight, so be sure to arrive at 8pm sharp for what promises to be a great evening.

The doors will open at 7.45pm with the raffle tickets available to buy before a hot buffet meal for all involved.

Following dinner, the raffle draw will take place with ten chances to win £100 before our main act for the evening, The Soul Kick, takes to the stage to entertain you all.

Finally, the night will be rounded off with our resident DJ Kevin Peet so you can all dance the night away.

The fun doesn't stop there however – on Sunday night, we do it all over again but this time with entertainment from the Lorraine Crosby Band.

We are sure that all our guests will have a great night courtesy of the Bolton Wanderers Development Association and we look forward to seeing you on whichever evening you attend.

Thank you for your continued support and don't forget that if you want to recommend anyone to join the Lifeline Weekly draw, we are currently offering you £20 for every new member recruited.

For more information or a form, please contact the Promotions Department on 01204 673774.

LIFELINE DISCOUNT DAY AT BOLTON CENTRAL

Lifeline members can take advantage of an exclusive discount day this Sunday at Bolton Central with a 10% discount on offer.

Please note however that this discount is only valid on merchandise only and does not include tickets, travel, gift vouchers, items from our Signature Collection or sale products.

To qualify, you must show your Lifeline card at the tills at the time of purchase.

If you have misplaced your card, please contact 01204 673774 to arrange a new one to be sent out to you.

TREATS AVAILABLE FOR MARCH ONWARDS

With four home games in March against the likes of Blackburn Rovers, Brighton & Hove Albion and Wigan Athletic, don't miss out on the perfect opportunity to book a Special Occasion Treat for the Bolton fan in your life.

With packages available to suit any budget and starting from just £45, there is something for everyone.

Take for instance the Original Treat, which includes a message in the matchday programme, your photo with Lofty the Lion and also with a player of your choice.

This treat is for two people and takes place at pitch side two hours before kick-off, leaving you the chance to call into FanZone before returning for the match at 3pm.

There are four other packages available which are the same as the basic but include signed merchandise:

Signed Football Package	£65 (Two people)
Signed Photo Package	£75 (Two people)
Family Treat with Signed Ball	£85 (Five People)
Signed Shirt Package	£135 (Two people)

For full details or to book any of our packages, please contact us on 01204 673774.

BLACKBURN ROVERS

Rivals and fellow North West opposition Blackburn Rovers will make the short trip to the Reebok on Saturday 1 March, looking to close the gap on sixth placed Reading.

Rovers are currently sat in tenth, but only six points separate them and the Royals who occupy the final play-off position with just over three months of the campaign to go.

The Lancans appointed Gary Bowyer as their new manager on May 24, 2013 after Michael Appleton's brief stint at the club.

The 41-year-old, who previously held the role of reserve-team boss, had two spells in temporary control of the first team during the 2012/13 season.

Bowyer was one of five men to take charge at Ewood Park last term and his first stint, led Rovers to an unbeaten run of four matches after the dismissal of Henning Berg in December.

With nine games of the season to go, Bowyer again took caretaker charge of Blackburn after Appleton had been dismissed in March.

Rovers slipped into the bottom three on April 6, but gained 11 points from their last six league games to finish 17th in the Championship, four points above the relegation zone.

This season however has seen a significant change in fortunes for the Ewood Park outfit, with stability off the field proving the catalyst for Bowyer and his side.

Since the turn of the year, Blackburn have only tasted defeat once in league competition when they were beaten comfortably by Nottingham Forest at the City Ground four weeks ago.

A victory at Leeds United on New Year's Day was followed by another three points at home to Doncaster Rovers ten days later, which pushed Rovers into the higher echelons of the division.

Sandwiched inbetween those two fixtures was a cup tie against Manchester City, and despite holding the Premier League giants to a draw at Ewood Park, they ultimately lost by five goals in the replay.

Rovers responded well to a slip-up at Forest as they held high-flying Derby County to a 1-1 draw at home, before picking up a somewhat disappointing point against Barnsley at the end of January.

Bowyer's men have picked up four points from their first two games of February, as they defeated Blackpool in the Lancashire derby, and played out a goalless draw at Middlesbrough.

MANBEHIND THE MIC

Philip Gittins
Wanderers Player commentator

Throughout the course of a season, you often hear reference made to how small margins can make such a difference in determining the outcome of a game of football.

Perhaps nowhere has there been greater evidence of this than with our very own Bolton Wanderers over the last couple of fixtures.

Had Chung-Yong Lee's deflected effort not bounced to safety off the crossbar while the scoreline was goalless against Burnley in our last outing here, or Lukas Jutkiewicz's penalty kick not been well saved by David Forde with the Whites already a goal to the good at Millwall last weekend, then the outcome in both encounters could so easily have been very different.

At the moment, that seems to be the way that things are going for Wanderers, as they were left to rue their ill fortune ultimately taking one point from the six on offer.

That said, there were certainly positive aspects in both performances as we enjoyed significant periods of dominance going forward and defended resolutely, restricting the opposition to few opportunities on each occasion.

One man who certainly made a major contribution in both matches was the club's recent loan signing Jutkiewicz. Since his capture from Middlesbrough in the January transfer window, our number 29 has been employed as the figure-head of the Whites attack.

Demonstrating strength and awareness, he has linked up impressively with the midfield and also exhibited his prowess in front of goal with his exquisite half volley to open his account against Bournemouth, and then with his angled header at The Den last Saturday.

So far he has found the back of the net twice in his four starts - a 1:2 ratio that any striker would be delighted with. He will look to add to that tally this afternoon against a Watford side now under the direction of Giuseppe Sannino.

When these two sides last locked horns at Vicarage Road in November, Wanderers ran out victors by a Jermaine Beckford goal to nil. A repeat of that outcome today would do very nicely, whatever the margin.

Enjoy the game!
